For an instant the two trains ran together, side by side. In that frozen moment, Elspeth witnessed a murder. Helplessly, she stared out of her carriage window as a man remorselessly tightened his grip around a woman’s throat. The body crumpled. Then the other train drew away.

But who, apart from Miss Marple, would take her story seriously? After all, there were no suspects, no other witnesses . . . and no corpse.

Miss Marple Does It Again!

By Susan

How do you review Agatha Christie? You don't. She is the Queen of Mysteries and that's about it. I do however have some favorites and am slowly adding them to my Kindle library. 4:50 From Paddington is one of those. Although Miss Marple is the guiding force through the tangled web of who done it, a new character, Lucy Eyelesbarrow, is the main protagonist. I have always loved the descriptions of Lucy and wished that Christie had included her in some other books. I also have 4:50 From Paddington on dvd from PBS Mysteries. It is always interesting to note the changes made in the characters and the plot line between book and TV show. Both are excellent. Read the book first, however. As is always the case, a book can be more detailed and complex than a time-limited TV show.
