ARANDORA STAR BY NATALIE DYE PDF

It is 1940. Lily has just left her abusive husband, Albert, and finds comfort in the town's Italian café. The café owner's son, Antonio, a widower with a young son, and Lily soon fall in love.

But their happiness is overshadowed by the spectre of Albert who is intent on destroying both of their lives. Albert falsifies information and incriminates Antonio, who is arrested and interned in various makeshift camps.

Unbeknownst to Antonio's mother, and Lily, he is put on the Arandora Star, a vast cruise ship hastily refitted for war, with other innocent Italian men, German, Austrian and Jewish internees, which is to take them to Canada.

A heartbreaking and remarkable story that is both moving and unbearably riveting.

Excellent psychological thriller based on tragic historical WWII event

By Bartley C. Frueh

This is an excellent psychological thriller based on a tragic historical event that occurred during WWII, and it tells the story of an immigrant family caught up in the events of the day. The author's husband's grandfather perished in the downing of the ship in the title. Her impassioned writing brings a sense of urgency and character to what is also a valuable history lesson along the way. This is a terrific novel!

Lost History

By Donald

I had to check my History books to agree with the Truth of the Story. Thanks Natalie for bringing to light this fantastic story. A real story of courage, and of coincidence Many heroes and many surprises....

Natalie Dye vividly captures a forgotten episode in British History

By Amanda, Melbourne Australia

War often results in regretful decisions which affect the lives of the innocent, a thoughtful, easily readable account of one such event.
