Postive

By Dr. W. G. Covington, Jr.

To get the negative part over with in the beginning let me say I think Dr. Schuller could have phrased certain points better in places in this book and he goes too far in saying this discovery of self-love is a second Reformation. Having established that qualification, I'd say he makes some valid observations in this book that are quite helpful for overcoming negative misconceptions that tend to hold one back.

In some places of the book I thought he was diverging from orthodoxy, but when I read his concluding chapter I think it was just a poor choice of building his case. It's in the conclusion that he makes it clear he is talking about God's plans and purposes being dominant in a person's life.

Dr. Schuller successfully uses scientific evidence to demonstrate how the ancient truths of the Bible apply to one's thought life.

I can't help but mention he wrote this book before the fall of Communism, but his prediction is clear, unambiguous, and now history. He wrote, "I boldly predict that Communism will ultimately fail..." He was right about that and he's right about a lot of other things in this book.

A Must For Fans of Schuller

By BobL

This was perhaps the most important book Schuller wrote outside of "More Ahead With Possibility Thinking." He came to realize there was a reason why some people did not adapt the Bible-based teachings for which he became known. An excerpt:

It's not a sin to experience a wonderful feeling of self-affection. It is a sin not to love what God loves. True religion teaches that God loves every person. No person will love God so long as he fails to love himself. Jesus Christ had this remarkable perception when He offered the eleventh commandment, Thou shall love the Lord thy God and thy neighbor as thyself. A member of my church who was a millionaire lost his entire fortune. Worse yet – he lost all of his self-respect. As his spiritual aiming to rebuild his broken spirit, I asked, "Do you love God?" "Yes" was the reply. "Do you love yourself?" "No."

Then you do not really love God, for God lives within you too," I said.

He understood the fact that if you say you love God and do not love yourself, you are not being honest! Understanding this he decided to learn to love himself. When he succeeded, his earlier "love of God" turned into a really powerful belief in God. So strong was this belief that started over again and is today moving ahead rapidly

Even if this is your first time with Schuller, it is well worth the read since it deals with a condition afflicting many at the core..
